MERIT SYSTEM WILL GOVERN

President Wilson Will Not Have His Time Monopolized by Men Seeking Official Positions—Indications Are That Some Republicans Whom He Regards as Efficient Will Retain Their Places.

Washington, March 6.—President Wilson indicated that he favors the merit system when making appointments where it is practicable. This is the inference that is drawn here in his sending to the senate the name of John H. Marble, secretary of the interstate commerce commission, to be a member of the commission to succeed Franklin K. Lane, who entered the cabinet.

The appointment also shows that Mr. Wilson is going to be influenced strongly by members of his cabinet, for Mr. Lane suggested Mr. Marble.

This nomination, together with that of Interstate Commerce Commissioner Clark to succeed himself and Mr. Wilson's announcement, which likely will go down in history as official order No. 1, stating that no officeseekers need apply, caused howls of anguish to go up from a hungry horde of Democrats who have been waiting sixteen years to serve their country.

Some Republicans to Stay.

The order, incidentally, shows that Mr. Wilson has no immediate intention of making a clean sweep of the Republican offices.

Mr. Houston, the new secretary of agriculture, was welcomed by the men in his department as a real find. He is not a politician, but has an excellent record as an administrator. Furthermore, he has made a strong impression on President Wilson because he was the only member of the new cabinet who really kept secret his appointment until the day before the inauguration.

As an example of the way Houston preserved silence it is told that he rode all the way from St. Louis with former Governor Francis of Missouri listening to the latter predicting the names that would appear in the cabinet list and preserving an appearance of great interest when men other than himself were mentioned for the post of secretary of agriculture. Francis could hardly believe that Houston had been appointed when he read the list.

LIKE BOLT FROM CLEAR SKY

President Wilson's Order Regarding Officeseekers.

Washington, March 6.—Officeseekers will not be permitted to take up the time of President Wilson. He issued a statement declaring that applicants would have to address themselves to the heads of the different governmental departments unless the president sent for them. The president's statement follows:

"The president regrets that he is obliged to announce that he deems it his duty to decline to see applicants for office in person, except when he himself invites the interview. It is his purpose and desire to devote his attention very earnestly and very constantly to the business of the government and the large questions of policy affecting the whole nation and he knows from his experience as governor of New Jersey, where it fell to him to make innumerable appointments, that the greater part both of his time and of his energy will be spent in personal interviews with candidates unless he sets an invariable rule in the matter. It is his intention to deal with appointments through the heads of the several executive departments."

ONLY ONE CONTEST DEVELOPS

Representative Underwood Succeeds Himself as Chairman of Ways and Means Committee, Personnel of That Tariff Making Body Agreed Upon and All House Officers Renominated.

Washington, March 6.—Speaker Clark was renominated, Representative Underwood again chosen chairman of the ways and means committee, the entire Democratic personnel of that tariff making body named and all the house officers renominated at a harmonious six-hour caucus of the Democrats of the house of the Sixty-third congress. The caucus was held in the house chamber and 270 of the 290 house Democrats were present.

The following were nominated for ratification by the house when it meets in extra session on April 1:

Speaker—Champ Clark of Missouri. Ways and Means Committee—Representative Underwood, Alabama, chairman; Francis Burton Harrison, New York; Dorsey W. Shackleford, Missouri; Claude Kitchen, North Carolina; Henry T. Rainey, Illinois; Lincoln Dixon, Indiana; Cordell Hull, Tennessee; W. S. Hammond, Minnesota; Andrew J. Peters, Massachusetts; A. Mitchell Palmer, Pennsylvania; Timothy T. Ansberry, Ohio; John S. Garner, Texas (new); James W. Collier, Kentucky (new). Republican members will be chosen in April.

Clerk of the House—South Trimble, Kentucky. Doorkeeper—J. J. Sinnott, Virginia. Sergeant-at-Arms—Robert B. Gordon, Ohio.

Postmaster—William M. Dunbar, Georgia. Chaplain—Rev. Henry N. Couden, Washington, D. C.

Will Renew Tariff Work.

The Democratic members of the ways and means committee will commence the final committee revision of the tariff Friday, taking up the work where the Democrats constituting the majority of the committee in the last session of congress left it as a "tentative basis." There will be a tariff caucus, when the extra session convenes, to pass upon the report.

The caucus was marked by a good deal of speechmaking and enthusiasm. The nominations for offices were by acclamation, except that for sergeant-at-arms, on which there was a lively contest that resulted in Gordon's choice over former Representative W. H. Ryan of Albany, N. Y., on a vote of 138 to 115.

A resolution framed by Representative Sherley of Kentucky, to forward his budget reform plan to reduce congressional appropriations, was adopted. It recommended to the house the creation of a special committee to consider and report on changes needed in the rules regarding the preparation of appropriation bills and especially on the feasibility of having all the supply measures prepared by one committee.

Speaker Clark's speech in acknowledgment of his renomination dealt with the party's program and future. He urged the carrying out of the party promises and said the only way to achieve this was for every Democrat in an official position "to give the best there is in him and subordinate individual ambition to the public weal."

JAMES NEEDS SPECIAL CHAIR

Kentucky Senator Is Too Big for Ordinary Ones.

Washington, March 6.—A change that will be necessary in senate accommodations to meet the demands of the newcomers is the providing of a special chair for Senator Ollie M. James of Kentucky, who has the distinction of being the biggest man in the senate.

Mr. James found the armchairs used by other senators "crowded him too much."

Senator Penrose, the other giant of the senate, has a special size chair and a new one of the same dimensions has been ordered for Senator James.

DEMOCRATS DISCUSS
ILLINOIS DEADLOCKNational Committee Hopes to Secure Two Senators.

Washington, March 6.—The Democratic national committee in session here took cognizance of the senatorial deadlocks in Illinois and New Hampshire and adopted a resolution expressing the hope that Democrats be elected to the senate to fill the vacancies in those states.

The resolution, introduced by Clark Howell of Georgia, directed Chairman McCombs to take such action as he deems necessary to assure the election of two Democratic senators in Illinois and one Democrat in New Hampshire.

In Illinois, James Hamilton Lewis and Charles Beeschenstein, the national committeemen, are the Democratic candidates. In New Hampshire, Henry P. Hollis has come within a few votes of election, although several Democrats refrained from voting for him.

Despite the fact that Mr. McCombs has been offered the ambassadorship to France by President Wilson and the belief of his friends that he may accept the post he did not relinquish the chairmanship of the national committee and in his address to the members he gave indications that he expected to direct the work of party organization for some time.

In response to a resolution of thanks for his work in the last campaign Mr. McCombs declared that he believed in a broad scope of activities for the national committee and that it would be a delight to him to carry on the work as far as he could.

Gettysburg, Pa., March 6.—Eight monuments on the Gettysburg battlefield were badly damaged by a vandal who evidently used a heavy hammer. The monuments which suffered were the Fifth corps headquarters, Fortieth and Ninety-sixth Pennsylvania, Fortieth New York, Grant's Vermont brigade, Sixth Maine, Fifth Wisconsin and Thirty-seventh Massachusetts.

Large pieces of granite were chipped off of prominent parts of all the memorials, while in several instances parts of the faces of soldiers were knocked off, guns smashed and portions of bodies broken.

London, March 6.—Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, leader of the suffragettes, has broken down. She has canceled all engagements and gone to the country for rest. Mrs. Drummond no sooner began talking than a group of students let loose quantities of snuff, starting everybody to sneezing. A lively scuffle ensued between the attendants and the disturbers. Chairs were broken, blows exchanged and black eyes and bruises were plentiful.

WILSON UNDER NO
TAFT OBLIGATIONDeclined All Courtesies From Predecessor.

LATTER OFFERED MUCH AID

Retiring Executive Extended Use of Battleship on Trip to Panama, Use of Cabinet Members and Use of White House to Assist Successor, All of Which Were Not Accepted.

By ARTHUR W. DUNN.

Washington, March 6.—[Special.]—Mr. Wilson becomes president without being under obligations to his predecessor. Several times Mr. Taft tried to do something for Mr. Wilson, and each time Mr. Wilson declined. Mr. Taft offered Mr. Wilson a warship to make a trip to Panama and suggested that he should visit the canal before he entered upon his duties as president. Mr. Taft made such a trip.

Then Mr. Taft offered to let Mr. Wilson occupy the White House for a week prior to his inauguration in order that Mr. Wilson might learn how the machinery worked. Still later Mr. Taft offered to lend Mr. Wilson members of his cabinet and high officials in the military and civil establishment in order that Mr. Wilson might be informed as to the existing conditions. Mr. Wilson declined to accept any of these offers, contenting himself with taking up the burdens of office after he became president.

Going His Own Gait.

From which it may be gathered that Mr. Wilson is going his own gait in this administration. He is not going to lean upon very many persons, and he did not seem inclined to seek instruction at the hands of his predecessor. One can understand the kindly offer of Mr. Taft. When Mr. Taft came to the presidency he had been solicitor general, a circuit judge, governor of the Philippines and secretary of war. He knew the game at first hand from start to finish.

He was said by the outgoing president to be the best equipped man in the nation for the high office (though I believe that opinion has since been revised), and consequently he did not need much instruction as to how he should conduct the office. But Mr. Wilson had been only a college president and governor of a state, hence his inexperience and lack of knowledge of the governmental machine. Mr. Taft was willing to help him take hold, and Mr. Wilson declined with thanks. So we conclude that Mr. Wilson thinks he can run his own administration.

They Are All Here.

Not in many years has there been such a large crowd of Democratic patriots assembled as are now camping about Washington. They are waiting for the new appointments. It looks as if there were at least 100 men to every office. And yet all seem to be very sure. They all rendered distinguished and effective service during the recent campaign.

But Wilson will recollect the enormous number of electoral votes and the fact that two Republican candidates were in the field and conclude that there wasn't really so much service rendered after all. It simply came his way.

House Rules Ancient.

Congressman Gardner, recognized as one of the best parliamentarians in the house, told that body that most of the rules were obsolete. "Why," he said, "a self respecting parliament of pterodactyls or dinosaurs would get rid of half these rules. I used to wonder why a thorough revision of the rules had so long been delayed, and I discovered the reason by asking myself this question: 'Gardner, why is it that you advocate a complete revision of the rules when you know at heart you do not want them revised?' I believe the rules ought to be revised, and yet it will rob me of a good deal of my stock in trade if revision takes place, because familiarity with the mysteries of the rules gives me a great advantage."

This was an honest statement of the fact. The rules are made and retained so that the skilled parliamentarians can win their way and handle legislation. It has always been that way. The unskilled man will lose nine times out of ten in a bout with the real parliamentary sharp.

Belated Presents.

Certain persons who gave Mrs. Taft and her daughter handsome presents ought to have thought of it earlier. More people would have seen the jewels while displayed in the White House than in New Haven.

White House Dinner.

Mrs. Taft ordered the White House dinner for March 4, although Mrs. Wilson and her family ate it. Mrs. Taft went right along with the housekeeping duties just as if she were not going to move out between breakfast and luncheon.

Nick Longworth's Choice.

Nick Longworth, who was not re-elected to congress, was asked whether he would rather be called former congressman or ex-congressman.

"If I could have my way I would prefer neither designation," replied Nick, "but it looks as if I would have to take what's coming to me."

WILLET M. HAYS RESIGNS

Minnesota Man Leaves Department of Agriculture.

Washington, March 6.—The resignation of Professor Willet M. Hays of Minnesota, assistant secretary of agriculture, was accepted by President Wilson. It will become effective upon the qualification of Mr. Hays' successor. Just when the new assistant to the head of the department will be named is not known.

There are a number of candidates for the post, notably John Lamb of Virginia, former chairman of the house committee on agriculture. Mr. Lamb is strongly backed for the appointment.

WOUNDS TEACHER
AND KILLS HIMSELFRejected Suitor Chases Children
From Rural School.

Moorhead, Minn., March 6.—A dozen school children of district No. 53, three miles north of Stockwood, saw a rejected suitor, flourishing a pistol, chase their young teacher from the building. He fired shot after shot at her as she ran.

"You kids hurry home as fast as you can," he shouted. Frightened, they did not wait for a second command.

Meanwhile a tragedy had occurred near the school. Benjamin Tinjun of Ulen had fired a fourth bullet into the body of Miss Anna Skien, the girl he loved. When help arrived his dead body lay over that of the teacher, who was conscious and talking to a lad of thirteen years. He was tugging at the body of the would be slayer. A husky boy he soon removed it; then he lifted the teacher into his arms and carried her into the schoolhouse.

Shortly after school began Tinjun entered the building and said a few words to Miss Skien. She had broken their engagement, it is said, and he came to effect a reconciliation. The girl whispered something and he took a seat. At recess time the children left the room. Then the shooting began.

VISITORS ANNOY MARSHALL

Says Office Is Like Monkey Cage Except He Doesn't Get Peanuts.

Washington, March 6.—Hundreds of inaugural visitors who thronged into Vice President Marshall's office so disturbed the equilibrium of the vice president's official duties that he has determined to ask for a new room in the senate office building, where he can "put his feet on the desk and smoke a cigar in peace."

The vice president's single office room adjoins one of the main corridors near the senate and through long custom its door remains open to the public. Mr. Marshall, early at his desk, found that he had to do business in the full view of the passing crowds, which frequently surged in and demanded the visitor's prerogative of shaking hands.

"I don't see that this room differs much from a monkey cage," said the vice president, during a lull in the constant reception, "except that the visitors do not offer me any peanuts."

Minnesota Farm School Professor Shoots Visitor at Home.

St. Paul, March 6.—Professor Oscar M. Olson, a demonstrator of the University School of Agriculture, shot to death Clyde N. Darling, a driver for the Capital Steam laundry, at the rear door of his home. After giving himself up to Olson, the police say, stolidly confessed that he waited for his chance and deliberately shot the man. Both men are married.

In the presence of County Attorney O'Brien, Coroner D. C. Jones and Captain Gebhardt, Mr. Olson is said to have stated that he suspected Darling of being too friendly with Mrs. Olson. Mrs. Olson is away with her four-year-old girl visiting Mr. Olson's brother at Montevideo, Minn.

1,200-FOOT PIERS AUTHORIZED

New York to Construct Two to Accommodate Modern Liners.

New York, March 6.—Authorization was given by the city for the first of the projected 1,200-foot piers to accommodate ocean liners of the type now building or planned abroad for service between this port and Europe.

The new pier will be constructed at Forty-sixth street and the Hudson river, a point far north of the present group of berths for transatlantic ships, the additional width of the river there permitting the longer piers.

The structure authorized is to cost about $4,300,000. Without such piers the new liners of 1,000 feet and upward would have no safe berthage here.

Sir Thomas Lipton, who has just returned from America, when questioned on the subject said there was no doubt of the acceptance of the challenge. The New York Yacht club, he added, had been notified, both by the Royal Ulster Yacht club and Sir Thomas Lipton personally, of the dispatch of the challenge.

BRYAN SIGNS COMMISSIONS

After Taking the Oath New Secretary of State's First Official Act is to Place His Name on the Documents Appointing Other Members of President Wilson's Official Family.

Washington, March 6.—In marked contrast with the pomp and circumstances with which their chief was inducted into office six members of President Wilson's official family were sworn in. Those who began their official lives as Secretaries Bryan, Garrison, Daniels, Lane, Burleson and Wilson. Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo, Secretary of Agriculture Houston, Attorney General McReynolds and Secretary of Commerce Redfield will take their oaths later.

Mr. Bryan took the oath at the secretary of state's office, where he appeared with Mrs. Bryan and a party of friends. Assistant Secretaries Wilson, Ade and Pale also were present when the oath was administered by William McNair, chief clerk of the department.

The first official act of Secretary Bryan was to sign the commissions of the other members of President Wilson's cabinet. The last official act of Secretary Knox was to sign the commission of his successor. Mr. Knox departed for Palm Beach, Fla.

Lindley M. Garrison, the new secretary of war, was sworn in by John Randolph, chief clerk of the secretary's office, who has sworn in every secretary of war since the days of President Grant. After taking the oath he received all the army officers in the city and the civilian employees of his department.

Daniels Has Large Audience.

The largest gathering to witness the ceremonies attending the induction into office of a cabinet member was present when Josephus Daniels took the oath that made him secretary of the navy. There was only a small party of friends, but the number was soon swelled by members of the Democratic national committee, senators, representatives and governors.

Chief Justice Shepard of the District of Columbia supreme court administered the oath of office to Postmaster General A. H. Burleson. Frank H. Hitchcock, the retiring postmaster general, and a party of friends were present. Rusk McCardie, who has been associated with Mr. Burleson during the last twelve years, was appointed secretary to the postmaster general.

Franklin K. Lane, the new secretary of the interior, began his cabinet career in the supreme court, having been called there by a departmental case. He was sworn in by Justice McKenna, with Mrs. Lane, Interstate Commerce Commissioner Marble and other friends witnessing the ceremony.

When William B. Wilson, the new secretary of labor, took the oath of office that ceremony brought to former Secretary of Commerce and Labor Nagel the distinction of being the last secretary of commerce and labor and the first secretary of commerce. Secretary Nagel will be a member of President Wilson's cabinet until William C. Redfield is sworn in as secretary of commerce. Secretary Wilson will serve for the present without salary, as congress made no appropriation for his office.

APPROVES DISTANCE TARIFF

Minnesota Senate Passes Cashman Bill by 35 to 25.

St. Paul, March 6.—The Cashman distance tariff bill was passed by the state senate by a vote of 35 to 25. The lineup embraced practically the members from the Twin Cities, Duluth, Red Wing and Winona and two or three whose districts are opposed to the distance tariff, against the senators from the rest of the state.

The measure still to be fought over in the house, where former Speaker H. H. Dunn of Albert Lea is leading the battle for it. As amended the bill will not go into effect until Jan. 1, 1914.

Two important bills were passed in the house. Twenty-three measures in all were disposed of, among which were five senate bills.

The Child and Nolan bill removing the limit of $7,500 on damages possible from injury by wrongful act was passed with little opposition. The Lydard and Saggau bill authorizing the game and fish commission to let contracts for sealing of rough fish unless county boards object was another important bill passed.

Explosion Fatal to Five.

Los Angeles, March 6.—The Santa Fe railroad received a call for help from Kenbrook, where a premature explosion of dynamite was reported to have killed a foreman and four of his men and to have injured twenty-five more members of a construction gang, some of these fatally.

ESCAPE FROM INDIANS

Telegram From Harry Donovan, New York City, Says Taylor and Bjorge are Safe

A telegram received from Harry Donovan, New York city, brother of P. W. Donovan of this city, says that William Leslie Taylor and Guy M. Bjorge are safe. The telegram was based on a cablegram received from Caracas and so the latest news is entirely authentic and has done much to relieve the anxiety of Taylor's many friends.

The Minneapolis Tribune published the following: "Bjorge and Taylor had been engaged by a mining company, prospecting in the wilds of Venezuela for oil and mineral deposits. With Maracaibo as their base, they set out in the woods and were captured by the wild natives. The boys fought with the savages but were unable to return to their home. As a last resort, they set out in the opposite direction and going through more than 100 miles of dense woods arrived at a seaport town, Laguarra.

From there, Bjorge wired his father at Duluth that they were safe. No details of the fighting with the Indians were given. The boys were graduated from the university school of mines last June.

Governor Eberhart, previous to the receipt of the message, wired to President Wilson asking him to lend the aid of the federal government in rescuing the boys.

P. W. Donovan, who went to Dun- gas to see Taylor's parents, is expected to return to Brainerd on the midnight train.

Mrs. P. W. Donovan has just given the Dispatch the text of a message which has been received from the state department of the United States. It is to the effect that the secretary of state had received a cablegram from the American consul at Maracaibo and that he had reported Bjorge and Taylor rescued from the Indians, both unhurt.

"WILSON FACE" IS LATEST MODEL

Looking Like Public Men the American Style.

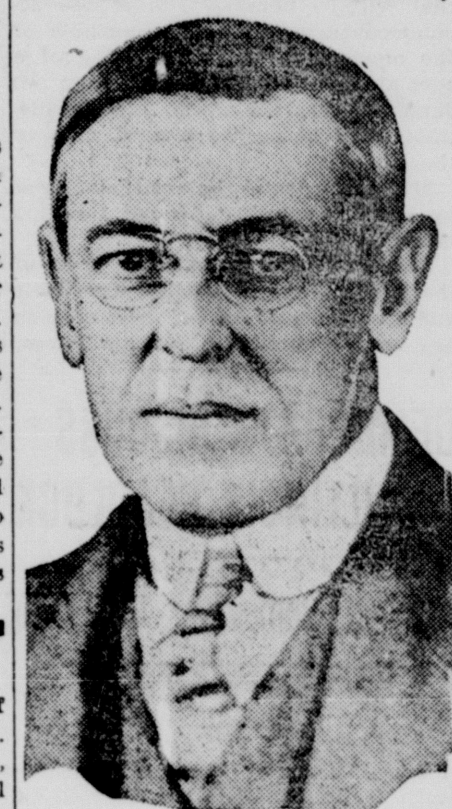

SOME TYPES OF THE PAST.

Henry Grady, Henry Clay, Ben Tillman, Theodore Roosevelt, Lincoln and Many Others Had Hundreds of "Doublets"—Senator Cullom and Uncle Joe Cannon Two Examples.

Washington. — We Americans are great imitators—"copyists," the artistic would call us—in amusements, in dress, in philosophical speculation, in political thinking, in community living, and there is now about to appear "in our midst" the Woodrow Wilson face. There is nothing to be ashamed of in such a visage. It is a strong face, clean cut, with a fighting jaw, a generous but firm mouth, an intellectual forehead and well formed ears and big, keen gray eyes.

When Henry Grady attained his high place among the publicists of his time it seemed that every young man in Georgia tried to look as much like Grady as he could. They talked, as well as they could, as he talked; they told his stories, imitated his style of writing and adopted his peculiarities of gait and gesture. Then came Ben Tillman, who made the wool hat the test of statesmanship in South Carolina, and only a few years ago all the country over the cowboy type was the accepted type of the man who would die for his country.

At about the same period there was another model which was accepted as the true Phidian of the Democracy.

PRESIDENT ELECT WOODROW WILSON.

and from the plains of Nebraska to the onion patches of Texas the long black alpaca coat in summer, the lamb's wool collar in winter, the reversible cuffs at all seasons became the last word in type and symbol of statesmanship and virtue.

The venerable Shelby M. Cullom of Illinois and Uncle Joseph Cannon have acquired not a little distinction in the public eye because it has been claimed that they "look exactly like Abraham Lincoln."

The portraits of many of the elder statesmen of this country represent them in dress and face as belonging to a very distinct type of the genus homo. There are a few survivors of that older period, and if Sulzer's clothes should be put on the marble effigy of Henry Clay, which stands in the little pagoda on the capitol grounds in Richmond, not even Job Hedges could pass by without lifting his hat and saying, "Good morning, governor."

Now that a new administration is about to begin and there is a new face at the door, it is really one of the most remarkable incidents of the day that there are so many men with the Woodrow Wilson face, so clever are the American people in the high dramatic art of dressing the part. It can be seen in almost any large assemblage of men, and there will be more of them as the days pass, at least until the leaves and fishes have all been distributed, and after that—well, it doesn't matter.

ST. PAUL CHARTER'S SALIENT POINTS

Described by J. W. Bennett, of St. Paul, in His Fourth Article for The Dispatch

EIGHT ELECTIVE OFFICERS

Comptroller in Charge of Accounting, Checking and Publicity, is not Council Member

J. W. Bennett, of St. Paul, employed by that city to assist in putting into effect its new system of commission form of government, has in his fourth article for the Brainerd Dispatch described the salient features of the St. Paul idea which takes effect April 1. Mr. Bennett says:

Eight elective officers will look after the business of St. Paul under the new commission charter, a mayor, comptroller and six councilmen.

The six councilmen and the mayor constitute the council and look after legislative business. The mayor is president of the council and has a vote except when a question of his own veto comes up, or a question of charges preferred by him against any other elective officer. In the latter case he not only does not have a vote but he is disqualified from presiding at the session of the council at which the accused officer has a hearing.

It is the duty of the mayor immediately upon the organization of the new government to assign a councilman as administrative head of each of the city departments, a sort of committee of one to look after the general superintendence of its business. He has the power of reassignment on a single day six months afterwards, and his second assignments or his permitting the original assignments to stand, determines the place of each department head until the end of his term.

Under the St. Paul charter the comptroller is not a member of the council, nor in any way connected with it. He is an accounting, checking and publicity officer for the city. It is his business to see that the city officers keep proper books and records and to know the facts and give to the public the facts in such form that the public may understand. Public opinion must be relied upon largely to give us the right kind of municipal government, and public opinion is powerless unless it knows the facts.

Heads of administrative departments are a commissioner of finance, of public safety, of education, of public works, of public utilities; of parks, playgrounds and public buildings, six in all.

St. Paul by its new charter has abolished the place of city treasurer and the duties of that officer are placed upon the commissioner of finance. Besides he is financial officer of the water board. He takes part in levying and collecting special assessments. He is a member of the sinking fund committee.

The commissioner of public safety has general direction of the police, the fire and the health departments. As the technical heads of these departments, he will have a fire chief, a police chief and a commissioner of health. It will be the business of the commissioner to select these men, to help organize the department, keep the division chiefs up to their work and compel them to co-operate.

Schools, and the public library, the two instruments of education will be in the hands of the commissioner of education. He will have a librarian and a superintendent to look after the technical matters.

In the hands of the commissioner of public works will be the care of the streets, the collection of garbage, repairs and construction, work on bridges, streets, sewers and the water works. He has a force of engineers under his direction.

A commissioner of public utilities will be the executive head of the water board and will have city lighting in his hands. He will also have supervision over all utilities privately owned.

The commissioner of parks, playgrounds and public buildings, has jurisdiction over the services indicated by the name. He will have under his jurisdiction an architect and a landscape architect as well as a director of playgrounds to aid him in his work.

All elective officers are elected at large on a non-partisan basis.

A city clerk and a corporation counsel elected by the council, complete the force of city officers.

Mr. Ilse is a member of the school board from the third ward and Mr. Taylor, also a resident of the third ward, is a member of the water and light board.

IDEAL SORT OF BROTHER SKETCHED

Rev. W. J. Lowrie, Pastor of Presbyterian Church, Spoke on Subject Sunday Evening

CHARACTER WAS EMPHASIZED

"The Young Man of Today has the Fate of the Man of Tomorrow in His Hands"

At the Presbyterian church last Sunday night Rev. W. J. Lowrie preached on the subject "What Kind of a Fellow Would You Like Your Brother to be?" A number of persons wrote stating their opinion of what a brother should be—their ideal.

Appearance, habits and character were all spoken of. Character was most largely emphasized. The special points of character chiefly dwelt upon were manliness, respectfulness, industriousness, kindness and bravery. The cowardly attitude of doing "what others want you to do and not what you know is right" was mentioned as a most reprehensible thing. While the courageous part in doing the right thing despite jibes and jeers was most highly commended.

The religious essential for the basis of character combined with some legitimate occupation was considered a necessary thing for every brother who approached the ideal.

"Humble toil and heavenward duty."

These will make the perfect man. As to the habits of this hypothetical brother the letters were explicit.

Tobacco was tabooed. Strenuously by some, mildly by others. The general verdict was that tobacco was bad for the immature and those engaged especially in school work.

Liquor was prohibited—in that it hardened the arteries and softened the head.

As to positive habits—the ideal brother should go to church and go willingly, not as tho he were being made a martyr of. He should not be a dude but neat and should give a proper amount of attention to his person and clothes—that his appearance should be the best possible.

In summing up, Mr. Lowrie said the young man of today has the fate of the man of tomorrow in his hands. This should nerve him to the highest effort.

Next Sabbath the subject will be "What Kind of a Girl Do You Want Your Sister to Be?" Answers are requested by the minister.

GET TOGETHER MEETING PLANNED

Booster Club Wishes to Meet with Commercial Club to Consider Soo Road Extension

SOO REPRESENTATIVE TO COME

Boosters to Boost for Home Made Goods, Including Cigars and Other Articles

The Brainerd Boosters club held an adjourned regular meeting at the office of George H. Gardner last evening. About thirty members were present and the meeting was an enthusiastic one.

The applications of D. A. Peterson, M. T. Dunn and Wm. Sinclair were accepted. Many subjects were discussed and among them was the proposition for more vigorously circulating the petitions for the Soo road extension into Brainerd and the necessity of sending them in as soon as possible. Jay Henry Long brought up the matter and stated that the Commercial club and the Booster club should fix a time for a joint meeting of both clubs when a representative of the Soo road should be invited to be present and address the joint meeting. He stated that Grand Rapids had invited Mr. Pennington and he sent a representative of the road to Grand Rapids and addressed the club. Mr. Long made a motion to the effect that the Commercial club be requested to appoint a time for a joint meeting of the Commercial club and the Booster club at the Commercial club rooms when a representative of the Soo road should be invited to be present and address the members, and that the matter be presented through the railroad committees of both organizations, and the motion was unanimously carried.

A vote of thanks was extended to the Commercial club for its generous offer of its club rooms to the Boosters for holding their regular meetings, and on motion duly made and carried the offer was accepted providing that the Booster club upon such regular meeting nights should have the exclusive use of the meeting room.

Mr. Gardner brought up the matter of boosting home made goods and called attention to the fact that Brainerd has two cigar factories manufacturing as good cigars as any in the state and stated that by boosting for those cigars we would help those factories build up. A motion was made and carried that the Boosters club put itself on record as favoring home made goods, and especially Booster Schlange's and Booster Imgrund's cigars.

President Adair called the attention of the club to the fact that an election of officers of the club would be held at the next regular meeting and stated that as this time of the year was going to be his busy time that it would not be advisable for him to accept the presidency of this club for the ensuing term should it be tendered to him. He called upon the secretary to read the names of the present members of the club, which numbers 110, and stated that it would be well for them to consider those names in order to choose new officers.

Supt. W. C. Cobb addressed the club and spoke about the get-together spirit and what good could be accomplished for the benefit of the city in that way. His remarks were loudly applauded.

D. A. Peterson also addressed the club on the matter of co-operation and expressed his willingness to help the club whenever he could.

NOTES OF ST. JAMES HALL

Pupils of Room of St. Francis Parochial School Raise Money for Revolving Desk Chair

The pupils of St. James hall of the St. Francis parochial school wishing to get a revolving desk chair for their room, desired to earn the money instead of asking their parents for contributions. They hemstitched a pair of sheets and pillow slips. The girls did the sewing and crocheted the lace and the boys also assisted by attending to the sale of the articles made.

In all, the class realized $30, which was double the amount anticipated. Mrs. Joseph Murphy being the one fortunate enough to secure the beautiful handiwork.

After the chair was purchased, the money left over was expended in story books and for the use of the hall. The class wishes to thank all people who encouraged them by their hearty cooperation in the enterprise.

A FINE ENTERTAINMENT

Given by the Ladies of the First Congregational Church in Church Parlors Last Night

The entertainment given by the ladies of the Congregational church last night in the church parlor was largely attended and all present were greatly pleased. The entertainment consisted of a program of old songs and instrumental numbers rendered by old time favorites, dressed in costumes that were the style from 20 to 50 years ago. These old songs and choruses so dear to the heart of all, were exquisitely rendered and the costumes, so very proper and chic in their time, were the cause of great mirth and merriment, not only to the young of today, but to the older people who wore them 20 to 30 years ago. The reappearance of the Aeolian Quartette after a lapse of from 10 to 15 years was a source of great pleasure to all the older people present.

The feature of the evening was a dialogue entitled "Society Gossip," between Mrs. E. P. Slipp and Mesdames Alderman, Elder and Misses Sadie Robinson and Ina Sheridan. The dialogue, in rhyme, was written by Mrs. Slipp and was replete with witty references to the conceits and short comings of all attendants of the church, and the brightness of the lines was only equalled by the naturalness of their presentation. The audience was convulsed with laughter during the rendition of this number. That the "old songs" make a hit with Brainerd audiences was fully established by last night's entertainment.

THE PENNINGTON PUTS DOWN SHAFT

Will be Sunk to Ore Body and Used to Secure Water Supply for Camp and Machinery

WORK AT THE ARMOUR MINES

Quarter Mile Drift Connecting These Two Mines Near Crosby—Other News Items of Crosby

Crosby, Minn., March 6—The Pennington people are putting down a shaft on their property for the purpose of securing a permanent water supply for their machinery and their camps. The shaft will be eight feet square and will be sunk down to the ore body. Two of the engines recently purchased from the Baldwin Locomotive Works have arrived and the other two are expected soon. The company will have at least six engines in all and over thirty modern fifteen yard dump cars. The removal of the surface from this time on should proceed with considerable vigor. Up to the present about 100,000 yards of dirt have been removed. This amount is estimated to be about a tenth of the total to be removed.

The Rogers-Brown Ore Co. continue to add to their improvements in all lines. The electrical equipment for the underground and surface haulage systems has practically all been received and the most of it installed. At the Armour No. 1 shaft but one motor will be in use at this time, that one being located underground. At No. 2 shaft two will be installed, one on the surface and one underground. These locomotives are of 4 ton capacity and General Electric manufacture. The work of making underground connection between these shafts has just been completed. The connection points have been from the East drift No. 2 at the Armour No. 1 to the West drift No. 2 at Armour No. 2 making the drift between the shafts exactly a quarter of a mile in length. This drift will afford both shafts excellent ventilation facilities and in case of accidents at either point, a quick method of getting to surface. At the present time both shafts are hoisting about 800 tons each daily.

H. J. Breen left for Hioing on Saturday where he will visit with his family for a week or ten days. Will C. Brown and D. Williams of Duluth transacted business in the city last Thursday.

ORDER CREATES CONSTERNATION

Officeseekers Indulge in Loud Howls of Anguish.

MERIT SYSTEM WILL GOVERN

President Wilson Will Not Have His Time Monopolized by Men Seeking Official Positions—Indications Are That Some Republicans Whom He Regards as Efficient Will Retain Their Places.

Washington, March 6.—President Wilson indicated that he favors the merit system when making appointments where it is practicable. This is the inference that is drawn here in his sending to the senate the name of John H. Marble, secretary of the interstate commerce commission, to be a member of the commission to succeed Franklin K. Lane, who entered the cabinet.

The appointment also shows that Mr. Wilson is going to be influenced strongly by members of his cabinet, for Mr. Lane suggested Mr. Marble. This nomination, together with that of Interstate Commerce Commissioner Clark to succeed himself and Mr. Wilson's announcement, which likely will go down in history as official order No. 1, stating that no officeseekers need apply, caused howls of anguish to go up from a hungry horde of Democrats who have been waiting sixteen years to serve their country.

Some Republicans to Stay.

The order, incidentally, shows that Mr. Wilson has no immediate intention of making a clean sweep of the Republican offices.

Mr. Houston, the new secretary of agriculture, was welcomed by the men in his department as a real find. He is not a politician, but has an excellent record as an administrator. Furthermore, he has made a strong impression on President Wilson because he was the only member of the new cabinet who really kept secret his appointment until the day before the inauguration.

As an example of the way Houston preserved silence it is told that he rode all the way from St. Louis with former Governor Francis of Missouri listening to the latter predicting the names that would appear in the cabinet list and preserving an appearance of great interest when men other than himself were mentioned for the post of secretary of agriculture. Francis could hardly believe that Houston had been appointed when he read the list.

LIKE BOLT FROM CLEAR SKY

President Wilson's Order Regarding Officeseekers.

Washington, March 6.—Officeseekers will not be permitted to take up the time of President Wilson. He issued a statement declaring that applicants would have to address themselves to the heads of the different governmental departments unless the president sent for them. The president's statement follows:

"The president regrets that he is obliged to announce that he deems it his duty to decline to see applicants for office in person, except when he himself invites the interview. It is his purpose and desire to devote his attention very earnestly and very constantly to the business of the government and the large questions of policy affecting the whole nation and he knows from his experience as governor of New Jersey, where it fell to him to make innumerable appointments, that the greater part both of his time and of his energy will be spent in personal interviews with candidates unless he sets an invariable rule in the matter. It is his intention to deal with appointments through the heads of the several executive departments."

Woman Who Lost $41,000 Goes to Kansas City.

Kansas City, March 6.—Mrs. Mabel Mills, the San Antonio (Tex.) woman who lost $41,000 in Evanston, Ill., Saturday, arrived here and registered at a hotel under an assumed name. Mrs. Mills immediately sought seclusion in her room and refused to see any one. She told the hotel management that her husband, E. W. Mills of San Antonio, Tex., would come here.

Mrs. Mills said she came to Kansas City to get away from Chicago police and newspaper men. She had told them all she knew about the robbery, she said, but they persisted in questioning her.

SUES SUGAR TRUST FOR DUTY

Government Demands $100,536.63 From Company.

New Orleans, March 6.—Suit was filed here in the federal district court against the American Sugar Refining company to recover $100,536.63 alleged to be due the government in customs duties on entries of sugar.

District Attorney C. R. Beattie charges that officers of the American Sugar Refining company of New Orleans "by improper inferences, payments, favors, threats and pressure" caused government samplers to make tests fraudulently.

CAUCUS PROVES QUIET AFFAIR

House Democrats Again Select Clark for Speaker.

ONLY ONE CONTEST DEVELOPS

Representative Underwood Succeeds Himself as Chairman of Ways and Means Committee, Personnel of That Tariff Making Body Agreed Upon and All House Officers Renominated.

Washington, March 6.—Speaker Clark was renominated, Representative Underwood again chosen chairman of the ways and means committee, the entire Democratic personnel of that tariff making body named and all the house officers renominated at a harmonious six-hour caucus of the Democrats of the house of the Sixty-third congress. The caucus was held in the house chamber and 270 of the 290 house Democrats were present.

The following were nominated for ratification by the house when it meets in extra session on April 1:

Speaker—Champ Clark of Missouri.

Ways and Means Committee—Representative Underwood, Alabama, chairman; Francis Burton Harrison, New York; Dorsey W. Shackelford, Missouri; Claude Kitchen, North Carolina; Henry T. Rainey, Illinois; Lincoln Dixon, Indiana; Cordell Hull, Tennessee; W. S. Hammond, Minnesota; Andrew J. Peters, Massachusetts; A. Mitchell Palmer, Pennsylvania; Timothy T. Ansberry, Ohio; John S. Garner, Texas (new); James W. Collier, Kentucky (new). Republican members will be chosen in April.

Clerk of the House—South Trimble, Kentucky.

Doorkeeper—J. J. Sinnott, Virginia.

Sergeant-at-Arms—Robert B. Gordon, Ohio.

Postmaster—William M. Dunbar, Georgia.

Chaplain—Rev. Henry N. Couden, Washington, D. C.

Will Renew Tariff Work.

The Democratic members of the ways and means committee will commence the final committee revision of the tariff Friday, taking up the work where the Democrats constituting the majority of the committee in the last session of congress left it as a "tentative basis." There will be a tariff caucus, when the extra session convenes, to pass upon the report.

The caucus was marked by a good deal of speechmaking and enthusiasm. By acclamation, except that for sergeant-at-arms, on which there was a lively contest that resulted in Gordon's choice over former Representative W. H. Ryan of Albany, N. Y., on a vote of 138 to 115.

A resolution framed by Representative Sherley of Kentucky, to forward his budget reform plan to reduce congressional appropriations, was adopted. It recommended to the house the creation of a special committee to consider and report on changes needed in the rules regarding the preparation of appropriation bills and especially on the feasibility of having all the supply measures prepared by one committee.

Speaker Clark's speech in acknowledgment of his renomination dealt with the party's program and future. He urged the carrying out of the party promises and said the only way to achieve this was for every Democrat in an official position "to give the best there is in him and subordinate individual ambition to the public weal."

OLLIE JAMES.
Big Kentuckian Will Have Special Chair in the Senate.

JAMES NEEDS SPECIAL CHAIR

Kentucky Senator Is Too Big for Ordinary Ones.

Washington, March 6.—A change that will be necessary in senate accommodations to meet the demands of the newcomers is the providing of a special chair for Senator Ollie M. James of Kentucky, who has the distinction of being the biggest man in the senate.

Mr. James found the armchairs used by other senators "crowded him too much."

Senator Penrose, the other giant of the senate, has a special size chair and a new one of the same dimensions has been ordered for Senator James.

DEMOCRATS DISCUSS ILLINOIS DEADLOCK

National Committee Hopes to Secure Two Senators.

Washington, March 6.—The Democratic national committee in session here took cognizance of the senatorial deadlocks in Illinois and New Hampshire and adopted a resolution expressing the hope that Democrats be elected to the senate to fill the vacancies in those states.

The resolution, introduced by Clark Howell of Georgia, directed Chairman McCombs to take such action as he deems necessary to assure the election of two Democratic senators in Illinois and one Democrat in New Hampshire.

In Illinois, James Hamilton Lewis and Charles Beechenstein, the national committeemen, are the Democratic candidates. In New Hampshire, Henry P. Hollis has come within a few votes of election, although several Democrats refrained from voting for him.

Despite the fact that Mr. McCombs has been offered the ambassadorship to France by President Wilson and the belief of his friends that he may accept the post he did not relinquish the chairmanship of the national committee and in his address to the members he gave indications that he expected to direct the work of party organization for some time.

In response to a resolution of thanks for his work in the last campaign Mr. McCombs declared that he believed in a broad scope of activities for the national committee and that it would be a delight to him to carry on the work as far as he could.

CHIPS GETTYSBURG STATUES

Vandal Mutilates Eight Memorial Monuments in National Park.

Gettysburg, Pa., March 6.—Eight monuments on the Gettysburg battlefield were badly damaged by a vandal who evidently used a heavy hammer. The monuments which suffered were the Fifth corps headquarters, Fortieth and Ninety-sixth Pennsylvania, Fortieth New York, Grant's Vermont Brigade, Sixth Maine, Fifth Wisconsin and Thirty-seventh Massachusetts.

Large pieces of granite were chipped off of prominent parts of all the memorials, while in several instances parts of the faces of soldiers were knocked off, guns smashed and portions of bodies broken.

SNUFF STARTS FREE FIGHT

English Students Disturb Suffragette Gathering.

London, March 6.—Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, leader of the suffragettes, has broken down. She has canceled all engagements and gone to the country for rest. This announcement was made at a suffragette meeting at Hampstead, where Mrs. Pankhurst was scheduled to speak. "General" Mrs. Flora Drummond took her place.

Mrs. Drummond no sooner began talking than a group of students let loose quantities of snuff, starting everybody to sneezing. A lively scuffle ensued between the attendants and the disturbers. Chairs were broken, blows exchanged and black eyes and bruises were plentiful.

WILSON UNDER NO TAFT OBLIGATION

Declined All Courtesies From Predecessor.

LATTER OFFERED MUCH AID

Retiring Executive Extended Use of Battleship on Trip to Panama, Use of Cabinet Members and Use of White House to Assist Successor, All of Which Were Not Accepted.

By ARTHUR W. DUNN.

Washington, March 6.—[Special.]—Mr. Wilson becomes president without being under obligations to his predecessor. Several times Mr. Taft tried to do something for Mr. Wilson, and each time Mr. Wilson declined. Mr. Taft offered Mr. Wilson a warship to make a trip to Panama and suggested that he should visit the canal before he entered upon his duties as president. Mr. Taft made such a trip.

Then Mr. Taft offered to let Mr. Wilson occupy the White House for a week prior to his inauguration in order that Mr. Wilson might learn how the machinery worked. Still later Mr. Taft offered to lend Mr. Wilson members of his cabinet and high officials in the military and civil establishment in order that Mr. Wilson might be informed as to the existing conditions. Mr. Wilson declined to accept any of these offers, contenting himself with taking up the burdens of office after he became president.

Going His Own Gait.

From which it may be gathered that Mr. Wilson is going his own gait in this administration. He is not going to lean upon very many persons, and he did not seem inclined to seek instruction at the hands of his predecessor. One can understand the kindly offer of Mr. Taft. When Mr. Taft came to the presidency he had been solicitor general, a circuit judge, governor of the Philippines and secretary of war. He knew the game at first hand from start to finish.

He was said by the outgoing president to be the best equipped man in the nation for the high office (though I believe that opinion has since been revised), and consequently he did not need much instruction as to how he should conduct the office. But Mr. Wilson had been only a college president and governor of a state, hence his inexperience and lack of knowledge of the governmental machine. Mr. Taft was willing to help him take hold, and Mr. Wilson declined with thanks. So we conclude that Mr. Wilson thinks he can run his own administration.

They Are All Here.

Not in many years has there been such a large crowd of Democratic patriots assembled as are now camping about Washington. They are waiting for the new appointments. It looks as if there were at least 100 men to every office. And yet all seem to be very sure. They all rendered distinguished and effective service during the recent campaign.

But Wilson will recollect the enormous number of electoral votes and the fact that two Republican candidates were in the field and conclude that there wasn't really so much service rendered after all. It simply came his way.

House Rules Ancient.

Congressman Gardner, recognized as one of the best parliamentarians in the house, told that body that most of the rules were obsolete. "Why," he said, "a self respecting parliament of pterodactyls or dinosaurs would get rid of half these rules. I used to wonder why a thorough revision of the rules had so long been delayed, and I discovered the reason by asking myself this question: 'Gardner, why is it that you advocate a complete revision of the rules when you know at heart you do not want them revised?' I believe the rules ought to be revised, and yet it will rob me of a good deal of my stock in trade if revision takes place, because familiarity with the mysteries of the rules gives me a great advantage."

This was an honest statement of the case. The rules are made and retained so that the skilled parliamentarians can win their way and handle legislation. It has always been that way. The unskilled man will lose nine times out of ten in a bout with the real parliamentary sharp.

Belated Presents.

Certain persons who gave Mrs. Taft and her daughter handsome presents ought to have thought of it earlier. More people would have seen the jewels while displayed in the White House than at New Haven.

White House Dinner.

Mrs. Taft ordered the White House dinner for March 4, although Mrs. Wilson and her family ate it. Mrs. Taft went right along with the housekeeping duties just as if she were not going to move out between breakfast and luncheon.

Nick Longworth's Choice.

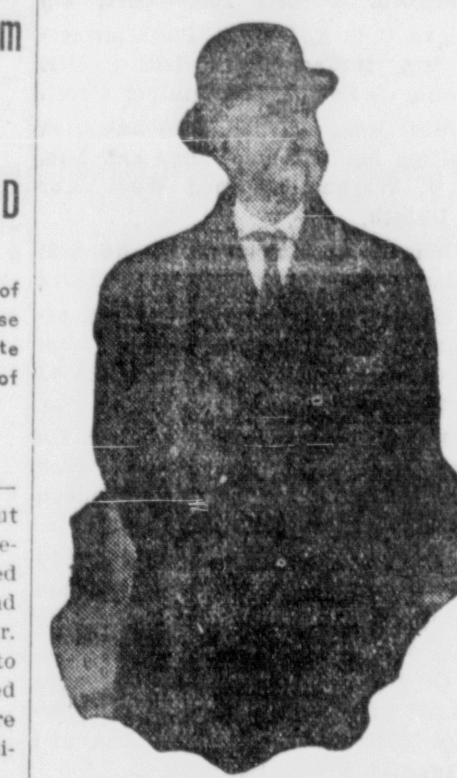

Nick Longworth, who was not re-elected to congress, was asked whether he would rather be called former congressman or ex-congressman.

"If I could have my way I would prefer neither designation," replied Nick, "but it looks as if I would have to take what's coming to me."

JOHN LAMB.
May Become the Assistant Secretary of Agriculture.

© 1911, by American Press Association.

WILLET M. HAYS RESIGNS

Minnesota Man Leaves Department of Agriculture.

Washington, March 6.—The resignation of Professor Willet M. Hays of Minnesota, assistant secretary of agriculture, was accepted by President Wilson. It will become effective upon the qualification of Mr. Hays' successor. Just when the new assistant to the head of the department will be named is not known.

There are a number of candidates for the post, notably John Lamb of Virginia, former chairman of the house committee on agriculture. Mr. Lamb is strongly backed for the appointment.

WOUNDS TEACHER AND KILLS HIMSELF

Rejected Suitor Chases Children From Rural School.

Moorhead, Minn., March 6.—A dozen school children of district No. 53, three miles north of Stockwood, saw a rejected suitor, flourishing a pistol, chase their young teacher from the building. He fired shot after shot at her as she ran.

"You kids hurry home as fast as you can," he shouted. Frightened, they did not wait for a second command. Meanwhile a tragedy had occurred near the school. Benjamin Tinjun of Ulen had fired a fourth bullet into the body of Miss Anna Skien, the girl he loved. When help arrived his dead body lay over that of the teacher, who was conscious and talking to a lad of thirteen years. He was tugging at the body of the would be slayer. A husky boy he soon removed it; then he lifted the teacher into his arms and carried her into the schoolhouse.

Shortly after school began Tinjun entered the building and said a few words to Miss Skien. She had broken their engagement, it is said, and he came to effect a reconciliation. The girl whispered something and he took a seat. At recess time the children left the room. Then the shooting began.

Visitors Annoy Marshall

Says Office Is Like Monkey Cage Except He Doesn't Get Peanuts.

Washington, March 6.—Hundreds of inaugural visitors who thronged into Vice President Marshall's office so disturbed the equilibrium of the vice president's official duties that he has determined to ask for a new room in the senate office building, where he can "put his feet on the desk and smoke a cigar in peace."

The vice president's single office room adjoins one of the main corridors near the senate and through long custom its door remains open to the public. Mr. Marshall, early at his desk, found that he had to do business in the full view of the passing crowds, which frequently surged in and demanded the visitor's prerogative of shaking hands.

"I don't see that this room differs much from a monkey cage," said the vice president, during a lull in the constant reception, "except that the visitors do not offer me any peanuts."

UNWRITTEN LAW HIS PLEA

Minnesota Farm School Professor Shoots Visitor at Home.

St. Paul, March 6.—Professor Oscar M. Olson, a demonstrator of the University School of Agriculture, shot to death Clyde N. Darling, a driver for the Capital Steam Laundry, at the rear door of his home. After giving himself up Olson, the police say, stolidly confessed that he waited for his chance and deliberately shot the man. Both men are married.

In the presence of County Attorney O'Brien, Coroner D. C. Jones and Captain Gebhardt, Mr. Olson is said to have stated that he suspected Darling of being too friendly with Mrs. Olson.

Mrs. Olson is away with her four-year-old girl visiting Mr. Olson's brother at Montevideo, Minn.

SIX SECRETARIES ARE SWORN IN

1,200-FOOT PIERS AUTHORIZED

New York to Construct Two to Accommodate Modern Liners.

New York, March 6.—Authorization was given by the city for the first of the projected 1,200-foot piers to accommodate ocean liners of the type now building or planned abroad for service between this port and Europe.

The new pier will be constructed at Forty-sixth street and the Hudson river, a point far north of the present group of berths for transatlantic ships, the additional width of the river there permitting the longer piers.

The structure authorized is to cost about $4,500,000. Without such piers the new liners of 1,000 feet and upward would have no safe berthage here.

LIPTON AGAIN CHALLENGES

Asks Another Series of Races for the America's Cup.

London, March 6.—A challenge by the Royal Ulster Yacht club for a series of races for the America's cup to take place in 1914, made on behalf of Sir Thomas Lipton, is on its way to America. The challenge is for competitions under the old rules.

Sir Thomas Lipton, who has just returned from America, when questioned on the subject said there was no doubt of the acceptance of the challenge. The New York Yacht club, he added, had been notified, both by the Royal Ulster Yacht club and Sir Thomas Lipton personally, of the dispatch of the challenge.

Mr. Allen made the remarkable flora of the mountain famous through the world by his exchanges with botanical associations. His collection of mosses, embracing 147 specimens, was conceded to be without a superior in the world.

The road to prosperity looks like an up-hill climb. It may be at first but it keeps getting EASIER. The nearer you get to the top the more joy you experience in knowing that soon you will be up and the climb will be over. Toward the top the money you have in the bank begins to assist and boost you. ESCAPE FROM INDIANS

Telegram From Harry Donovan, New York City, Says Taylor and Bjorge are Safe

A telegram received from Harry Donovan, New York city, brother of P. W. Donovan of this city, says that William Leslie Taylor and Guy M. Bjorge are safe. The telegram was based on a cablegram received from Caracas and so the latest news is entirely authentic and has done much to relieve the anxiety of Taylor's many friends.

The Minneapolis Tribune published the following: "Bjorge and Taylor had been engaged by a mining company, prospecting in the wilds of Venezuela for oil and mineral deposits. With Maracaibo as their base, they set out in the woods and were captured by the wild natives. The boys fought with the savages but were unable to return to their home. As a last resort, they set out in the opposite direction and going through more than 100 miles of dense woods arrived at a seaport town, Laguaira. From there, Bjorge wired his father at Duluth that they were safe. No details of the fighting with the Indians were given. The boys were graduated from the university school of mines last June.

Governor Eberhart, previous to the receipt of the message, wired to President Wilson asking him to lend the aid of the federal government in rescuing the boys.

P. W. Donovan, who went to Dun- gas to see Taylor's parents, is expected to return to Brainerd on the midnight train.

Mrs. P. W. Donovan has just given the Dispatch the text of a message which has been received from the state department of the United States. It is to the effect that the secretary of state had received a cablegram from the American consul at Maracaibo and that he had reported Bjorge and Taylor rescued from the Indians, both unhurt.

"WILSON FACE" IS LATEST MODEL

Looking Like Public Men the American Style.

SOME TYPES OF THE PAST.

Henry Grady, Henry Clay, Ben Tillman, Theodore Roosevelt, Lincoln and Many Others Had Hundreds of "Douglas"—Senator Cullom and Uncle Joe Cannon Two Examples.

Washington. — We Americans are great imitators—"copyists," the artistic would call us—in amusements, in dress, in philosophical speculation, in political thinking, in community living, and there is now about to appear "in our midst" the Woodrow Wilson face. There is nothing to be ashamed of in such a visage. It is a strong face, clean cut, with a fighting jaw, a generous but firm mouth, an intellectual forehead and well formed ears and big, keen gray eyes.

When Henry Grady attained his high place among the publicists of his time it seemed that every young man in Georgia tried to look as much like Grady as barbers and tailors could make them. They talked, as well as they could, as he talked; they told his stories, imitated his style of writing and adopted his peculiarities of gait and gesture. Then came Ben Tillman, who made the wool hat the test of statesmanship in South Carolina, and only a few years ago all the country over the cowboy type was the accepted type of the man who would die for his country.

At about the same period there was another model which was accepted as the true Phidian of the Democracy.

PRESIDENT WOODROW WILSON.

and from the plains of Nebraska to the onion patches of Texas the long black alpaca coat in summer, the reversible wool collar in winter, the reversible cuffs at all seasons became the last word in type and symbol of statesmanship and virtue.

The venerable Shelby M. Cullom of Illinois and Uncle Joseph Cannon have acquired not a little distinction in the public eye because it has been claimed that they "look exactly like Abraham Lincoln."

The portraits of many of the elder statesmen of this country represent them in dress and face as belonging to a very distinct type of the genus homo. There are a few survivors of that older period, and if Sulzer's clothes should be put on the marble effigy of Henry Clay, which stands in the little pagoda on the capitol grounds in Richmond, not even Job Hedges could pass by without lifting his hat and saying, "Good morning, governor."

Now that a new administration is about to begin and there is a new face at the door, it is really one of the most remarkable incidents of the day that there are so many men with the Woodrow Wilson face, so clever are the American people in the high dramatic art of dressing the part. It can be seen in almost any large assemblage of men, and there will be more of them as the days pass, at least until the leaves and fishes have all been distributed, and after that—well, it doesn't matter.

ST. PAUL CHARTER'S SALIENT POINTS

Described by J. W. Bennett, of St. Paul, in His Fourth Article for The Dispatch

EIGHT ELECTIVE OFFICERS

Comptroller in Charge of Accounting, Checking and Publicity, is not Council Member

J. W. Bennett, of St. Paul, employed by that city to assist in putting into effect its new system of commission form of government, has in his fourth article for the Brainerd Dispatch described the salient features of the St. Paul idea which takes effect April 1. Mr. Bennett says:

Eight elective officers will look after the business of St. Paul under the new commission charter, a mayor, comptroller and six councilmen.

The six councilmen and the mayor constitute the council and look after legislative business. The mayor is president of the council and has a vote except when a question of his own veto comes up, or a question of charges preferred by him against any other elective officer. In the latter case he not only does not have a vote but he is disqualified from presiding at the session of the council at which the accused officer has a hearing.

It is the duty of the mayor immediately upon the organization of the new government to assign a councilman as administrative head of each of the city departments, a sort of committee of one to look after the general superintendence of its business. He has the power of reassignment on a single day six months afterwards, and his second assignments or his permitting the original assignments to stand, determines the place of each department head until the end of his term.

Under the St. Paul charter the comptroller is not a member of the council, nor in any way connected with it. He is an accounting, checking and publicity officer for the city. It is his business to see that the city officers keep proper books and records and to know the facts and give to the public the facts in such form that the public may understand. Public opinion must be relied upon largely to give us the right kind of municipal government, and public opinion is powerless unless it knows the facts.

Heads of administrative departments are a commissioner of finance, of public safety, of education, of public works, of public utilities, of parks, playgrounds and public buildings, six in all.

St. Paul by its new charter has abolished the place of city treasurer and the duties of that officer are placed upon the commissioner of finance. Besides he is financial officer of the water board. He takes part in levying and collecting special assessments. He is a member of the sinking fund committee.

The commissioner of public safety has general direction of the police, the fire and the health departments. As the technical heads of these departments, he will have a fire chief, a police chief and a commissioner of health. It will be the business of the commissioner to select these men, to help organize the department, keep the division chiefs up to their work and compel them to co-operate. Schools, and the public library, the two instruments of education will be in the hands of the commissioner of education. He will have a librarian and a superintendent to look after the technical matters.

In the hands of the commissioner of public works will be the care of the streets, the collection of garbage, repairs and construction, work on bridges, streets, sewers and the water works. He has a force of engineers under his direction.

A commissioner of public utilities will be the executive head of the water board and will have city lighting in his hands. He will also have supervision over all utilities privately owned.

The commissioner of parks, playgrounds and public buildings, has jurisdiction over the services indicated by the name. He will have under his jurisdiction an architect and a landscape architect as well as a director of playgrounds to aid him in his work.

All elective officers are elected at large on a non-partisan basis.

A city clerk and a corporation counsel elected by the council, complete the force of city officers.

J. W. BENNETT.

He had been running a switch engine. Miss Lillie Lawrence left this afternoon for Superior and will return on the midnight train with the body. The funeral will be held in Brainerd.

The deceased was well known in Brainerd. He leaves five children, three sisters and two brothers.

LABOR NOTES

Matt Rodman Elected Secretary of Trades & Labor Assembly—Business Fair in Many Lines

The Trades & Labor assembly of Brainerd met at Labor Temple Wednesday evening and elected Matt Rodman secretary to fill the unexpired term of R. M. Sheets.

Work in the lines of machinists, moulders, cigarmakers, printers and boilermakers is reported as being fair.

New delegates obligated by the Trades & Labor assembly are Al. M. Suchanek, Fred Britton and Matt Rodman, all of the printers' union.

The commission form of government is being studied by all labor men of the city, who wish to be thoroughly posted on this form of municipal government.

As candidates for factory inspector of this district Richard Ilse and John Taylor, both members of the moulders union have announced their intention of trying for the position. Mr. Ilse is a member of the school board from the third ward and Mr. Taylor, also a resident of the third ward, is a member of the water and light board.

The state federation of labor holds its annual convention in St. Cloud in June.

IDEAL SORT OF BROTHER SKETCHED

Rev. W. J. Lowrie, Pastor of Presbyterian Church, Spoke on Subject Sunday Evening

CHARACTER WAS EMPHASIZED

"The Young Man of Today has the Fate of the Man of Tomorrow in His Hands"

At the Presbyterian church last Sunday night Rev. W. J. Lowrie preached on the subject "What Kind of a Fellow Would You Like Your Brother to be?" A number of persons wrote stating their opinion of what a brother should be—their ideal.

Appearance, habits and character were all spoken of. Character was most largely emphasized. The special points of character chiefly dwelt upon were manliness, respectfulness, industriousness, kindness and bravery. The cowardly attitude of doing "what others want you to do and not what you know is right" was mentioned as a most reprehensible thing. While the courageous part in doing the right thing despite jibes and jeers was most highly commended.

The religious essential for the basis of character combined with some legitimate occupation was considered a necessary thing for every brother who approached the ideal.

"Humble toil and heavenward duty."

These will make the perfect man. As to the habits of this hypothetical brother the letters were explicit. Tobacco was tabooed. Strenuously by some, mildly by others. The general verdict was that tobacco was bad for the immature and those engaged especially in school work.

Liquor was prohibited—in that it hardened the arteries and softened the head.

As to positive habits—the ideal brother should go to church and go willingly, not as tho he were being made a martyr of. He should not be a dude but neat and should give a proper amount of attention to his person and clothes—that his appearance should be the best possible.

In summing up, Mr. Lowrie said the young man of today has the fate of the man of tomorrow in his hands. This should nerve him to the highest effort.

Next Sabbath the subject will be "What Kind of a Girl Do You Want Your Sister to Be?" Answers are requested by the minister.

GET TOGETHER MEETING PLANNED

Booster Club Wishes to Meet with Commercial Club to Consider Soo Road Extension

SOO REPRESENTATIVE TO COME

Boosters to Boost for Home Made Goods, Including Cigars and Other Articles

The Brainerd Boosters club held an adjourned regular meeting at the office of George H. Gardner last evening. About thirty members were present and the meeting was an enthusiastic one.

The applications of D. A. Peterson, M. T. Dunn and Wm. Sinclair were accepted. Many subjects were discussed and among them was the proposition for more vigorously circulating the petitions for the Soo road extension into Brainerd and the necessity of sending them in as soon as possible. Jay Henry Long brought up the matter and stated that the Commercial club and the Booster club should fix a time for a joint meeting of both clubs when a representative of the Soo road should be invited to be present and address the joint meeting. He stated that Grand Rapids had invited Mr. Pennington and he sent a representative of the road to Grand Rapids and addressed the club. Mr. Long made a motion to the effect that the Commercial club be requested to appoint a time for a joint meeting of the Commercial club and the Booster club at the Commercial club rooms when a representative of the Soo road should be invited to be present and address the members, and that the matter be presented through the railroad committees of both organizations, and the motion was unanimously carried.

A vote of thanks was extended to the Commercial club for its generous offer of its club rooms to the Boosters for holding their regular meetings, and on motion duly made and carried the offer was accepted providing that the Booster club upon such regular meeting nights should have the exclusive use of the meeting room.

Mr. Gardner brought up the matter of boosting home made goods and called attention to the fact that Brainerd has two cigar factories manufacturing as good cigars as any in the state and stated that by boosting for those cigars we would help those factories build up. A motion was made and carried that the Boosters club put itself on record as favoring home made goods, and especially Booster Schlange's and Booster Imgrund's cigars.

President Adair called the attention of the club to the fact that an election of officers of the club would be held at the next regular meeting and stated that at this time of the year was going to be his busy time that it would not be advisable for him to accept the presidency of this club for the ensuing term should it be tendered to him. He called upon the secretary to read the names of the present members of the club, which numbers 110, and stated that it would be well for them to consider those names in order to choose new officers.

Supt. W. C. Cobb addressed the club and spoke about the get-together spirit and what good could be accomplished for the benefit of the city in that way. His remarks were loudly applauded.

D. A. Peterson also addressed the club on the matter of cooperation and expressed his willingness to help the club whenever he could.

NOTES OF ST. JAMES HALL

Pupils of Room of St. Francis Parochial School Raise Money for Revolving Desk Chair

The pupils of St. James hall of the St. Francis parochial school wishing to get a revolving desk chair for their room, desired to earn the money instead of asking their parents for contributions. They hemstitched a pair of sheets and pillow slips. The girls did the sewing and crocheted the lace and the boys also assisted by attending to the sale of the articles made.

In all, the class realized $30, which was double the amount anticipated. Mrs. Joseph Murphy being the one fortunate enough to secure the beautiful handwork.

After the chair was purchased, the money left over was expended in story books and for the use of the hall. The class wishes to thank all people who encouraged them by their hearty cooperation in the enterprise.

A FINE ENTERTAINMENT

Given by the Ladies of the First Congregational Church in Church Parlors Last Night

The entertainment given by the ladies of the Congregational church last night in the church parlor was largely attended and all present were greatly pleased. The entertainment consisted of a program of old songs and instrumental numbers rendered by old time favorites, dressed in costumes that were the style from 20 to 50 years ago. These old songs and choruses so dear to the heart of all, were exquisitely rendered and the costumes, so very proper and chic in their time, were the cause of great mirth and merriment, not only to the young of today, but to the older people who wore them 20 to 30 years ago. The reappearance of the Aeolian Quartette after a lapse of from 10 to 15 years was a source of great pleasure to all the older people present.

The feature of the evening was a dialogue entitled "Society Gossip," between Mrs. E. P. Slipp and Mesdames Alderman, Elder and Misses Sadie Robinson and Ina Sheridan. The dialogue, in rhyme, was written by Mrs. Slipp and was replete with witty references to the conceits and short comings of all attendants of the church, and the brightness of the lines was only equalled by the naturalness of their presentation. The audience was convulsed with laughter during the rendition of this number. That the "old songs" make a hit with Brainerd audiences was fully established by last night's entertainment.

THE PENNINGTON PUTS DOWN SHAFT

Will be Sunk to Ore Body and Used to Secure Water Supply for Camp and Machinery

WORK AT THE ARMOUR MINES

Quarter Mile Drift Connecting These Two Mines Near Crosby—Other News Items of Crosby

Crosby, Minn., March 6—The Pennington people are putting down a shaft on their property for the purpose of securing a permanent water supply for their machinery and their camps. The shaft will be eight feet square and will be sunk down to the ore body. Two of the engines recently purchased from the Baldwin Locomotive Works have arrived and the other two are expected soon. The company will have at least six engines in all and over thirty modern fifteen yard dump cars. The removal of the surface from this time on should proceed with considerable vigor. Up to the present about 100,000 yards of dirt have been removed. This amount is estimated to be about a tenth of the total to be removed.

The Rogers-Brown Ore Co. continue to add to their improvements in all lines. The electrical equipment for the underground and surface haulage systems has practically all been received and the most of it installed. At the Armour No. 1 shaft but one motor will be in use at this time, that one being located underground. At No. 2 shaft two will be installed, one on the surface and one underground. These locomotives are of 4 ton capacity and General Electric manufacture. The work of making underground connection between these shafts has just been completed. The connection points have been from the East drift No. 2 at the Armour No. 1 to the West drift No. 2 at Armour No. 2 making the drift between the shafts exactly a quarter of a mile in length. This drift will afford both shafts excellent ventilation facilities and in case of accidents at either point, a quick method of getting to surface. At the present time both shafts are hoisting about 800 tons each daily.

SKAUGE'S NEVER COUGH

SKAUGE'S NEVER COUGH is not a patent medicine, but is a prescription which I have been putting up for years—not a new experiment but a prescription that has been tried out by a leading Physician and found to be the very best remedy for the Grip and that Hacking Cough which so often leads to Pneumonia and Lung Trouble. It clears the lungs. It opens up the air passages, loosens up the tight cold in the chest better than any other cold medicine. O. C. Skauge, a registered pharmacist by examination, guarantees it. Money back if not satisfied.

Comparative Digestibility of Food

Made with different Baking Powders

From a Series of Elaborate Chemical Tests:

An equal quantity of bread (biscuit) was made with each of three different kinds of baking powder—cream of tartar, phosphate, and alum—and submitted separately to the action of the digestive fluid, each for the same length of time.

The relative percentage of the food digested is shown as follows:

Bread made with
Royal Cream of Tartar Powder:
100 Per Cent. Digested

Bread made with
phosphate powder:
68 1/4 Per Cent. Digested

Bread made with alum powder:
67 3/4 Per Cent. Digested

These tests, which are absolutely reliable and unprejudiced, make plain a fact of great importance to everyone: Food raised with Royal, a cream of tartar Baking Powder, is shown to be entirely digestible, while the alum and phosphate powders are found to largely retard the digestion of the food made from them.

Undigested food is not only wasted food, but it is the source of very many bodily ailments.

TRAGIC LOSS OF SCOTT PARTY IS SHOCK TO WORLD

Intrepid Captain and Four of His Men Had Reached Pole and Were Returning.

Story of Venture Is Told by Member of First Party.

NEWS of the appalling disaster which caused the death of Captain Robert F. Scott and four of his men recently shocked the world. It brings to timeliness the interesting story of the great venture into the antarctic regions. Those lost besides Captain Scott were:

Lieutenant E. R. Evans, R. N., second in command of the proposed western party.

Dr. E. A. Wilson, chief of the scientific staff, zoologist and artist.

Lieutenant H. R. Bowers, Royal Indian marine.

Captain L. E. G. Oates, in charge of ponies and dogs.

Captain Scott, with his associate party of scientists and big crew of sailors, had been on a far-reaching scientific quest, which included finding the south pole as merely an incidental. The ventures were found dead, the victims of a fierce blizzard which caught them on their return, after having had complete success in reaching the pole. The ship Terra Nova, which had taken the party into the antarctic and had gone to bring it back, discovered the tragedy.

Captain Scott arrived Jan. 18, 1912, at the south pole reached by Roald Amundsen. Amundsen had come to his final halt there one month and one day before. The Norwegian flag which he had planted there was found flying by Captain Scott. Documents found on the bodies of the dead recounted these facts.

This news came to London first in unconfirmed rumors and then in a cablegram from Oamaru, New Zealand, reporting that the Terra Nova had announced her early return by wireless "because of a grave calamity" to the Scott expedition.

In all the history of arctic or antarctic exploration there has been no fatality to equal the death of Captain Scott and his men. Other expeditions have perished from cold, from starvation or shipwreck; the bodies of other scientists have been found emaciated in the snow, and perhaps some of these had discovered the pole they sought, but there is no parallel of a polar hunt swiftly and scientifically accomplished, with accurate records set down, which was cut off at its very termination.

A Continent of Death.

The antarctic has long been known as a continent of death. It has neither the flora nor the fauna of the arctic. An occasional penguin or a migratory seal may be found near the ocean, but the interior has always been a white waste. Captain Scott and his men inhabited the continent longer probably than any other human beings, and it was as if one of the diabolical blizzards which swirl across the high plateaus had determined to exact from them before they could escape the price paid by all other life in its frozen area.

The circumstance is particularly tragic from the fact that Roald Amundsen only a month before had come and gone in weather so exceptionally balmy that the Norwegian had been inclined to discount the reports of earlier explorers of the blighting winds of the plateau. That he was somewhat earlier than Scott had something to do with it, but the choice of routes also contributed to the ease of Amundsen's journey. Captain Scott selected the same route he had taken in his first expedition, 1902-4, and later by Shackleton, pushing up the mountains from McMurdo sound and reaching high altitude early in the march as well as exposing the party to the blizzards almost from first to last.

Report of a Member.

Writing to the London Times on Captain Scott's plans and purposes, Herbert G. Ponting, a member of the original western party, who returned some time ago, denied that Captain Scott was ever in the race for the south pole, but was leading a great scientific expedition and confined his attention to that object. This report from one of the explorers is interesting. It is as follows:

"Since my return to England from the antarctic, having completed my work of illustrating Captain Scott's expedition, I have found that much misapprehension exists in regard to the objects of that enterprise. The popular idea that there has been a race to the south pole is an error. Captain Scott has engaged upon a mere dash to the pole. He is leading a great scientific expedition—perhaps the greatest ever sent out from England—and the reaching of the south pole was but an incident in the extensive program of work mapped out. To race would have been to jeopardize the success of the main objects of the expedition, and Captain Scott would not allow the presence of a rival in the field to move him from the course which he considered wisest and best.

"Within four months of our departure from New Zealand he had lost nine ponies out of nineteen, nearly half the total transport on which he was chiefly relying. It would be impossible to overstate the seriousness of this loss. Had two or three more ponies succumbed it is doubtful whether the main objects of the expedition could ever have been achieved, as in this work success is entirely dependent on the transport of a certain amount of food. It was principally due to this misfortune that Captain Scott did not start on the polar journey till Nov. 1. His original plans provided for leaving Cape Evans on Oct. 1, but October is a very cold and tempestuous month, and to have exposed the remaining transport animals to the additional perils which this weather would have entailed would have involved too grave a risk. He therefore reluctantly postponed his start for a month. That month probably lost for Captain Scott the honor of being first at the south pole.

Not Engrossed In Polar Quest.

"Among the congratulations to Captain Amundsen on his achievement those of Captain Scott will be the heartiest of all. More than any other man can he appreciate what it means to press such an enterprise to success. Captain Scott himself would have welcomed October's hardships, for that is a word I have never heard either him or any member of the landing party use, but he would not allow any really unnecessary exposure and risk to the animals he was dependent on to mar his chance of reaching the desired goal, as failure to get to the pole last season would have meant also the ruin of all this season's plans. He told me that he was much more interested in the work mapped out for this season and considered it of greater geographical importance than reaching the pole.

"When the last supporting party, led by Lieutenant (now Commander) Evans, left Captain Scott on Jan. 4 the polar party were only 145 miles from the goal of their hopes and in excellent health and spirits and were traveling at the rate of fifteen miles a day. All being well, the pole should therefore have been reached about Jan. 15 last. Caches of food had been made every sixty miles along the route. There was ample for the explorers to enjoy full rations on the whole return journey. The party were expected back at Hut Point, fifteen miles from Cape Evans, where the Terra Nova was waiting for them, about March 15, but on March 5 the sea was freezing so rapidly that Lieutenant Pennell, then commanding the ship, considered it unwise to remain longer, owing to the hourly increasing risk that the ship would be frozen in. It is unfortunate that we were unable to remain a week or ten days longer, as we should almost certainly have brought back with us the news that Captain Scott had reached the pole about Jan. 15. He and his companions probably returned to winter quarters before the end of March. No further news can be received from him until the Terra Nova again returns from the far south, about the end of next March. The members who accompanied Captain Scott to the pole are Dr. Edward Wilson, Captain L. E. G. Oates, Lieutenant Bowers and Petty Officer Evans.

"Captain Scott has tremendous staying power and any amount of energy of the right kind—the kind that sets a steady pace and keeps it up all day. If love of his work can pull him through we shall hear next year that he has not failed to accomplish all to which he has set his hand."

Captain Scott's Life.

Captain Robert Falcon Scott, R. N., C. V. O., F. R. G. S., commander of England's most important antarctic expedition, was born at Devonport, England, on June 6, 1868. After attending school at Stubbington House, Fareham, he entered the royal navy at the age of fourteen. As a cadet on board the training ship Britannia he gained some distinction as one of the cadet captains. When Scott's course on the Britannia was completed he was sent to the Cape of Good Hope naval station. He served for two years as a lieutenant on the Rover, which was in the British Pacific service.

The character of his service qualified him to take a special course of training, and as a four, one and two man in his examinations he had the privilege of choosing the subject in which he wished to specialize. He decided to take up torpedo work, and after qualifying in this he received assignments to one ship after another for eight years. After gaining an extra stripe Lieutenant Scott was appointed as a torpedo lieutenant to H. M. S. Majestic, a battleship of the first class and flagship of the channel squadron. His assignment to the Majestic marked the turning point of his career, for his commanders were Sir H. Stephenson and Prince Louis of Battenberg, two arctic enthusiasts who had served under Sir Leopold McClintock on a North-west passage expedition.

Had to Help Support Family.

About this time it became necessary for Scott to help with the support of his family, and to see what possibilities there were for adding to his lieutenant's salary he went to London. There he met by chance Sir Clements Markham, chairman of the Royal Geographical society, who had previously shown interest in Scott. He suggested to the young lieutenant that he apply for the command of the Discovery, which was then being fitted out to explore the little known antarctic continent.

Scott was chosen from a long list of applicants. He was then twenty-nine years old, healthy, strong and well built. For a year he worked over the provisioning and equipping of his ship and over the selection of his crew and scientific staff. On July 28, 1900, the whaler Discovery left the Thames with forty men, prepared for an expedition to last three years if necessary. The ship reached New Zealand after a rough time in the "roaring forties" and thence sailed for the antarctic regions. Two years of hardship resulted in the conquering of 500 miles more of antarctic snow and ice than any of his predecessors covered.

Upon his return to England many honors were bestowed upon him. The admiralty raised him to the rank of captain, making him the youngest captain in the navy, and the late King Edward made him commander of the Victorian Order. Medals were given him by the Royal Geographical society, Royal Scottish Geographical society and American, Swedish, Danish, Philadelphia and Antwerp Geographical societies. The story of the expedition was published by Captain Scott in "The Voyage of the Discovery," and the two volumes were widely read.

Gets High Post.

The admiralty allowed him three months in which to give lectures, the hardest task he ever undertook, so Captain Scott said. Returning to service in the navy, he was assigned to the Intelligence department of the admiralty.

For six years he continued at his desk, but finally "the call of the ice" could no longer be resisted, and he set out to raise funds for fitting out another expedition. After surmounting many difficulties Captain Scott secured the necessary financial assistance and had his expedition ready to start for his ultimate goal, the south pole.

When Captain Scott sailed he left behind a wife, whom he had married two years before, and an eight-months-old son, Peter, "the image of his father." The little fellow's baby idea of his father was a photograph, which he would hug and cover up, saying, "Keep daddy warm."

When word was received by Mrs. Scott last April that her husband intended to remain longer than at first expected she said: "I am not worried about the captain's safety. On the other hand, I am very glad that he availed himself of the opportunity to remain in the south until the objects of his expedition, which was one of scientific research, are accomplished." Only last week Mrs. Scott sailed with her baby from San Francisco for New Zealand, expecting to greet her husband on his arrival there.

Mrs. Scott is a sculptress, and shortly before the start of the fatal expedition she modeled the captain's clean-cut features, his broad shoulders and deep chest. His whole bearing bespoke a man of indomitable energy and courage.

The Inundation.

"If you please, sir," said a verger to a churchwarden in a village, "the new rector is to be inundated next Tuesday week, and I have come to ask you whether you will be able to be present." "Certainly," replied the churchwarden, who was something of a humorist, "and I hope there will be an overflowing congregation."—London Answers.

The Overcoat.
Probably in no other department sartorial is there exhibited so much indifference to hygienic considerations as in the overcoat. The greatest fallacy of all perhaps in regard to the choice of an overcoat is that the terms "weight" and "warmth" are synonymous. As a matter of fact, they are nearly always diametrically opposed. Moreover, the heavy overcoat is a tax on the resources of the organism and destroys the economy which a good insulating cloth is intended to secure.—London Lancet.

A TREAT FOR BRAINERD HOUSEKEEPERS

Brainerd housekeepers are delighted with the delicious nut-like flavor of "Minnesota" Macaroni. Many say they never knew macaroni could taste so good and be so firm and nutritious and flavorful as the "Minnesota" Macaroni now sold by leading Brainerd grocers.

There is a big difference in macaroni as sold in the stores. "Minnesota" Macaroni is made from the VERY BEST DURUM wheat with ALL the wonderfully nourishing Gluten left in. It is easily digested, very nourishing, and costs only about one cent a dish.

Try the handy "Minnesota" Cut Macaroni, which is cut into uniform pieces—it cooks more evenly and is quicker to prepare.—Adv't.
